City of Science and Centre of Culture

Darmstadt is a modern city – a place for cultural as well as scientific pursuits – while still retaining the charm of a former royal capital.

It uniquely combines an appreciation for arts and nature with a passion for science and innovation.

The castle, the Herrngarten and the Russian Chapel serve as reminders of its status as a former royal capital of the Grand Duchy of Hesse.

Furthermore, Darmstadt was a centre of the Art Nouveau movement, iconically represented by what is commonly known as the “Five-Finger-Tower” on Mathildenhöhe.

Its rise to prominence in the movement began with the birth of the Artists’ Colony in Mathildenhöhe, where a group of artists whose exhibitions enjoyed worldwide recognition took residence.

Nowadays, Darmstadt is most commonly known for its scientific institutions and their discoveries.

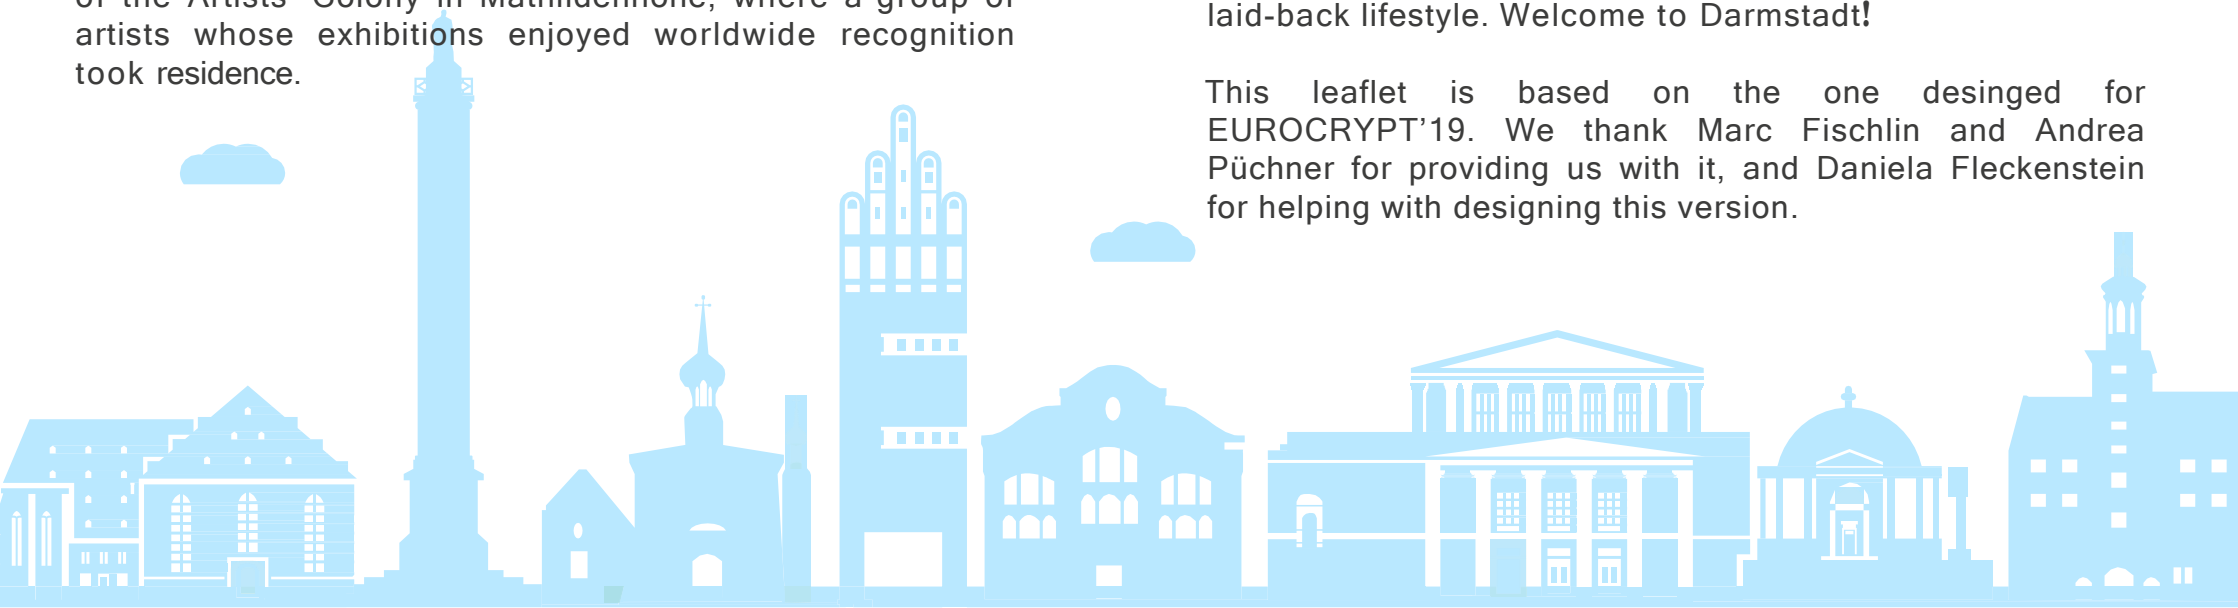

Many missions of the ESA (European Space Agency) are directed from the main mission control centre at ESOC in Darmstadt.

The European Organisation for the Exploitation of Meteorological Satellites (EUMETSAT) which informs us of weather and climate changes is also headquartered at Darmstadt.

The GSI Helmholtz Centre for Heavy Ion Research has discovered the existence of many elements (e.g. element Ds110 Darmstadtium).

We hope you enjoy our city of science and culture and its laid-back lifestyle. Welcome to Darmstadt!

This leaflet is based on the one designed for EUROCRYPT’19. We thank Marc Fischlin and Andrea Püchner for providing us with it, and Daniela Fleckenstein for helping with designing this version.

Darmstadt's Sights, Art & Culture

Mathildenhöhe

The Artist Colony Mathildenhöhe, an art nouveau ensemble from around 1900, is Darmstadt's best-known attraction. Due to its international importance, it was inscribed into the UNESCO World Heritage List since July 2021.

With the Mathildenhöhe App you can go on a journey through time on Mathildenhöhe. Historical views are super-imposed with current images and illustrate how the Mathildenhöhe developed during and after the Artists' Colony.

Hessisches Landesmuseum

The Hessisches Landesmuseum, one of the oldest public museums in Germany, offers a journey through the history of the earth, art and the world of animals. The museum's exhibits include an Art Nouveau collection, armours in the hall of arms and modern art with the "Block Beuys", as well as a large collection of cork models, a woolly mammoth and the picture gallery.

Friedensplatz 1, 64283 Darmstadt

Waldspirale

A must for fans of architecture is the Waldspirale.
The spectacular residential complex was built from 1998 to 2000 according to the plans of the artist and architect Friedensreich Hundertwasser.

Waldspirale, 64289 Darmstadt

Grosser Woog

Take a swim and relax at the popular bathing lake located in the center of the town. Probably created as a quenching pond in the middle of the 16th century, it was first mentioned as a public bathing pond in 1820.

Herrngarten

The Herrngarten is the green lung in the heart of the city. The largest and oldest park in Darmstadt was built in the 16th century and is situated close to TU Darmstadt and next to the workshop venue. The spacious green areas invite you to picnic, read, laze or meet friends.

Porzellanschlösschen

The Grand Ducal Hessian Porcelain Collection was set up by Grand Duke Ernst Ludwig of Hesse and by Rhine and was opened to the public in 1908. The collection is not the result of an individual collector's passion but rather the product of a family's inventory, gathered over centuries. Next to the Herrngarten, the nice little Prince Georg Palace with its charming garden forms a unique baroque ensemble.
